

How we make sure people in East Ayrshire get good care and support that is safe and right for them

Easy read

Who we are

We are the Care Inspectorate.
The Care Inspectorate is the regulator of care and support services in Scotland.

A regulator makes sure that services are following the rules.

Healthcare Improvement
Scotland is part of NHS Scotland. We work to make healthcare services better for everyone.

We visit services to do an inspection. An inspection means looking at how a service works.

Inspection of care services

We went to East Ayrshire.

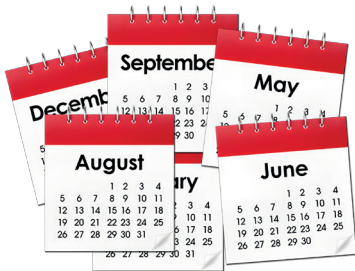

We inspected services for adults with a learning disability.

We wanted to see if all the different services worked well together.

We thought services were good at supporting people with a learning disability.

The inspection took us seven months. We started in January 2026 and finished in August 2026.

We met a lot of people. They told us what they thought.

This is what we found in East Ayrshire.

Most people liked their care and support.

They felt listened to.

They felt they could make choices.

There were lots of services to choose from.

There were lots of different choices for where people could live.

All different services worked well together.

This made it easier for people when they got support.

People said that the Community Learning Disability Team was really good.

It was easy to make choices about how you got your service.

It was easy to get help to manage your money.

There were some things we wanted to see more of.

Everyone should get a check-up from a nurse or a doctor. This should happen at least once a year.

Everyone should have a plan for what they want to happen. This is if anything changes in the future.

Staff should get support to let them do the best job they can.

Services should share what they know with each other.

This will help them make better decisions for everyone.

What happens next?

East Ayrshire will work with inspectors.

They will make a plan.

The plan will help East Ayrshire to keep getting better.
